5. WORK PLAN AND SCIENTIFIC SUPERVISION OF THE SCHOLARSHIPS

The work plan is inscribed in the developing activities of the Virtual Institute for Quality Education (VIQE) of the EC2U alliance on multilingualism and intercultural dialogue in spaces configured by materialities and discourses founded on European matrices. It involves potential co-supervision from members of the consortium institutions. Research to be developed starts from a comparative perspective and is centred on topics with a direct focus on linguistic, cultural and social diversity in articulation with discourses of (in)security, from a critical and interdisciplinary angle, both in theory and in methodology. Starting from the empirical lived experience of relocation by higher education students identified as international or mobility for reasons of migration and/or refuge, the project follows the dynamics of construction and transnational circulation of discourses of (in)security and their impact on language mediation and citizenship in the universities of the consortium. Two distinct comparative research lines are identified:

1. The discursive dimension, i.e., the textual dynamics of construction and circulation of narratives, images and metaphors about (in)security – in cultural texts and institutional documents associated to the implementation of security measures and policies in the consortium institutions, especially when articulated with the language integration and hosting of multilingual students, at multiple language policy scales.

2. The impact of these discourses in the dimension of lived experience of practices of language mediation and participation of these multilingual speakers in the academic spaces of the university and the lifeworld spaces of the city. The focus on language and literacy resources and repertoires (both material and immaterial), on students' historical bodies and corresponding internalized dispositions will identify how resources afford unique and situated "socioculturally mediated capacity to act" and survive in the new environments (Ahearn, 2001: 12).

The project combines critical analyses of discourses of (in)security and their impact on cultural policies (line 1), with a critical sociolinguistic analysis of the dynamics of language belonging and citizenship crossed by multiple dimensions (institutional, lived experience, agency – line 2). Data collection and analysis combine archival work and official public policy documents, with the help of digital methodologies (line 1), with (online and offline) linguistic ethnography in institutional contexts, including interviews and/or focal groups, linguistic landscape analysis, creative methods of co-construction of knowledge (e.g. biographical or creative writing workshops, among others), participant observation in academic and non-academic socialization spaces (line 2). Research scholarships will be attributed to those proposals that best meet each one of the research activity lines described above.

The remaining points of the work plan are common to both scholarships and they include:

- Active support and collaboration in implementing activities related to research, training and extension to be developed by the VIQE on Linguistic, Cultural and Social Diversity in Europe;
- Organisation of VIQE workshops on topics related to linguistic, cultural and social diversity, underlying theories and the corresponding research methodologies and data analysis;
- Organization and maintenance of networks and data bases resulting from VIQE's projects and activities related to linguistic, cultural and social diversity;
- Preparation and instruction of research proposals to national and international funding in the framework of VIQE on the topics of linguistic, cultural and social diversity;
- Participation as researcher in national and international research and action research projects in the context of VIQE, related to language, cultural and social diversity;
- Elaboration and publication of articles and other dissemination outputs related to linguistic cultural and social diversity, relevant in the context of VIQE.

6. EVALUATION CRITERIA AND BONUSES

6.1 Evaluation Criteria

The evaluation will be based on Curriculum Evaluation (Criterion A) and Interview (Criterion B) to the five-best classified in the Curriculum Evaluation .

All admitted applications will be ranked according to the weighted average of the score obtained on 1 to 100 in each of the following evaluation criteria:

- Criterion A – Curricular Evaluation, 80%
 - Subcriterion A1 - absolute merit of the Curriculum Vitae in the frame of the Institute's broader interdisciplinary project, 40%;
 - Subcriterion A2 - suitability of the candidate's profile to the work plan (according to preference stated in the motivation letter , 40%;

In order to decide the granting of a PhD scholarship, applicants will be ranked according to the weighted average of the score obtained in each of the two criteria, according to the following formula:

$$\text{Final classification} = (0.8 \times A) + (0.2 \times B)$$

For tiebreaking purposes, the final ranking list will be based on the scores assigned to each of the evaluation criteria in the following order: Curriculum Evaluation (Criterion A) and Interview (Criterion B).

Important note for candidates holding a degree issued by foreign higher education institutions:

- In the case of academic degrees awarded by foreign higher education institutions, and to guarantee the principle of equal treatment among applicants with national and foreign academic degrees, the applicants must submit proof of recognition of such degrees and the conversion of the respective final average grade to the Portuguese grading scale under the terms of the applicable legislation.

- In any case, scholarship contracts with applicants whose diplomas have been issued by foreign institutions will only be concluded upon presentation of proof of recognition of academic degrees and conversion of the final average grade, as indicated above.
